

Community Newsletter, Thursday 10th November

CURRENT SITUATION

Showers and thunderstorms are forecast for Thursday 10 November and Friday 11 November and renewed river rises are possible from Saturday. The situation is being closely monitored by the Bureau of Meteorology and warnings will be updated as necessary.

Residents are reminded to never enter flood waters; stagnant flood water may be harmful to human health.

The Emergency Warning for Echuca and Echuca Village has been downgraded to a Watch and Act – Avoid the Flooded Area. Dangerous flood water and standing water remains in Echuca, continue to avoid flooded areas. For people who have already evacuated some areas remain flooded, it still may not be safe to return.

Echuca:

Major flooding continues along the Murray River at Echuca currently at 94.47m and falling slowly. Minor flooding is occurring along the Campaspe River at Echuca currently at 94.11m and steady. Crews continue to monitor and maintain the integrity of levee banks during the day and night. Pumping operations continue to move flood water from storm water drains into the river. Local emergency services crews continue to patrol around Echuca Village.

Rochester:

The Campaspe River levels are falling with minor flooding occurring downstream of Rochester at Echuca. State Emergency Services are monitoring forecast conditions and local emergency services crews remain vigilant. Works on constructing emergency community accommodation at Elmore continue.

Torrumbarry:

The Murray River levels at Torrumbarry are steady and will remain around 7.85m, through to mid-November with major flooding. Emergency Services crews are monitoring the levee during the day and night and maintaining the levee bank where required.
